

THE NEGRO EDUCATIONAL REVIEW

An International Peer-Refereed Journal

Founded in 1950

Call for Manuscripts

Manuscripts are accepted on an ongoing basis.

This Call for Manuscripts is extended to scholars to submit manuscripts related to Blacks throughout the African Diaspora for publication consideration in The Negro Educational Review (NER). We encourage the submission of scholarly articles and research reports; scholarly analyses and descriptions of social problems; and significant compilations and creative works that address research, theory, and practice. We welcome manuscripts from all disciplines that address issues related to Black people.

The Negro Educational Review is an international, peer-reviewed scholarly journal. In publication since 1950, Currently, The NER is housed at the University of Pittsburgh. The journal has subscribers in many states and many foreign countries including England, Ireland, Germany, Holland, Switzerland, Japan, Korea, Nigeria, and Burundi. The vast majority of subscribers are libraries, primarily university and large city libraries. Individual subscriptions are available.

Manuscripts must be prepared according to the NER guidelines along with the most recent Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (APA) and must be submitted electronically. The manuscript length should be 5000 words or more. An abstract of approximately 150 words must accompany the manuscript. Additional information about manuscript submission appears in the journal.

Visit <https://www.education.pitt.edu/faculty-research/affiliated-journals-and-organizations/negro-educational-review-journal> and follow us on Twitter @NER_journal for more information about the NER or contact the Managing Editor at Nerjournal@pitt.edu.
